The Comptroller --- Banks and Banking Matters--- Illinois Senators Indignant.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 .- The Comptroller of the Currency called upon the National Banks for reports exhibiting their condition at the close of business Friday. October 1. He has also issued a circular to the National Banks, stating that dangerous counterfeits are in circula-tion of the denomination of five dollars of the following banks: First National Bank of Chicago, Traders' National Bank of Paxton, Ilinois, and the First Na-tional Bank of Canton, Illinois. Nearly the entire amount of genuine five-dollar notes of these banks has been with-drawn from circulation, and no additional issues of this kind will be made, and the Comptroller requests National Banks to transmit to the

made, and the Comptroller requests National Banks to transmit to the Treasury, for redemption, all such notes as come in their possession.

The Comptroller in September last issued circulars requesting returns from National Banks of the amount of State taxes paid by them during 1874 and 1875. These returns are not compiled for any state, and such banks as have not responded are earnessly requested to do so. The compilation, however, has been made from such returns as have been received from the State of Ohio, which comprise three-fourths of the banks of the State, from which it appears that the ratio of State taxation, in the city of Cincinnati, is 2 52-100 per cent. and Cleveland, 2 18 100, and from all banks of the State, including those in the cities, 2 32-100. The amount of United States taxes, for the same period, was 1 60-100, making a total of State and National taxes of 3 94-100 per cent. It is estimated that the total average taxation of the National Banks of Ohio is above four per cent.

A private letter received here from Chicago says that Senators Logan and Oglesby are very much incensed at the recent changes of Federal officers in Chicago. Not merely are they incensed on account of the removals, but because they were not consulted in the selection of new appointers. Senator Logan is reported as deciaring that he will opnose the confirmation of the new appointers. pose the confirmation of the new appoin-tees in the Senate next winter, and with the aid of his colleague will secure their rejection. This he proposes to do in order that his right to a voice in the selection of men for Federal officers in Illinois may be established. He expects every Republican in the Senate to support him in his view.

Correspondents of the Evening Post bave been calling in question the good of taste of using the word "thanks," in-stead of the old-usahloned "thank you." One of these declares "thanks" to be de-tal is a strong word, but we must confess that the practice complained of almost deserves the epithet. To our ears an abrupt "thanks" is very scant courtesy; one had better not respond at all if the utterance of another word is too much of a tax for him. A second correspondent of the Post tells us that this term came into vogue in England some years ago, but that it is no longer used among the best people there, and predicts in consequence that its use will soon disappear. We shall give hearty thanks if the prediction prove true.—Appleton's Journal.

Prosperity of Charleston.

Southern journals are adopting the western habit of printing annual reviews of the growth of their respective cities in industry and trade. New Orleans is, of course, much depressed at the sharp competition of St. Louis and Memphis, of course, much depressed at the sharp competition of St. Louis and Memphis, and by her political misfortunes. The sugar crop of Louisiana, however, is large this year, and agriculture generally remunerative. Atlanta is the most thriving city in the Southeast, having increased immensely in population and manufactures in ten years.

Charleston is the most prosperous commercial city. She is favored by a wise and liberal administration of railroad feeders, and is peculiarly fortunate in the variety and richness of the natural products of which she is the market. These are naval stores—an entirely new and growing trade—cotton, rice, lumber and phosphates. Charleston is now the third cotton port, and markets eleven per cent. of the whole crop. Of Carolina rice she has a monopoly; the trade in phosphates, crude and manufactured, last year amounted to $2,000,000. Richmond is also quite prosperous, the cheapness of labor enabling her great iron industries to keep in operation all through the dull season, and take orders from New England and the West when Pittsburg has been idle. Colored labor proves to be a strong point, instead of the weak one, in this case.—Cor. Springfield, Mass., Republican.

of dark cashmere, walked quietly on the suspension bridge. Nothing strange was noticed either in his looks or manner, and no one would have dreamed that he was even then contemplating the taking of his own life.

When near the middle of the bridge he deliberately climbed the railing on the lower side, and without a word or gesture of any kind jumped headlong into the meddy stream below. A teamster of Maddux, Hobart & Co. was among the few that witnessed the affair from the bridge, though some dozen or so of persons standing in the boats below saw him whirl through the air and then strike the water with a terrible spiash.

He rose almost instantly to the surface and swam, or rather floated, some two hundred yards down the stream and past the boats lying along the shore, and finally drowned, with hundreds of eyes watching his desperate struggles for life, while a bungling few were endeavoring to loosen a boat to send to his resoue.

He had hardly disappeared beneath the water, when a heavy rain-shower came up and dispersed the crowd that had assembled at the water's-edge, and all thought of the unfortnmate man was quickly laid aside.

He spoke at some length on the good results of their union in the noble cause of temperance. He also touched upon the vice of intemperance, which he said was taking root among every class of society, from the church to the people, and which he held it their duty to destroy as much as it lay in their power to do so.

In conclusion he dwelt upon the large number of persons that their societies already numbered, and hoped that it might steadily increase as in the past years. After High Mass the procession reorganized and moved west on Eighth to Mound, south on Mound to Fifth, east on Fifth to Cen-

The Convention was opened at Mozart Hall this morning, with Rev. Patrick Byrne presiding, and Mr. Michael O'Brien acting as Secretary. The exercises were opened by a short prayer, offered by His Grace, Archbishop Purcell; after which, the President, Rev. Patrick Byrne, delivered the introductory address of welcome, and also gave some general reasons why the noble cause of this Union should be earnestly presented.

His Grace, Archbishop Purcell, then in a few words introduced the most worthy Bishop Toebbe, of Covington, Ky., who addressed the assembly as fol-

Gentlemen-It is an especial pleasure to me to be present among you here to-day at your first meeting, and I am happy to greet you in the presence of his Grace, Archbishop Purcell, and these reverend fathers. If there be any object reverend fathers. If there be any object in which the prelates of the Church should take an especial interest, it is in this cause which you have proposed to yourselves and are so earnestly prosecuting. [Applause.] The great misfortune of this country is intemperance. Many States—Kentucky as an example—are cursed by this vice.

It is therefore our work to labor for our own people, to strengthem them, in

It is therefore our work to labor for our own people, to strengthem them, in order to overcome the temptations which beset them. Undoubtedly you gentlemen do not stand in need of the pledge, as you have proposed, what you do, to yourselves, but in taking it you show an example to others and teach them that if you can abstain from this curse they can. It has been well said that whenever Satan loses his tail he is obliged to go to a low doggered to get a new tail. go to a low doggered to get a new tail, where bad spirits are retailed. [Appiause.] There are many of these low places in the country.

A movement was sometime ago set on foot in this city to shut up these dens, but met with no success. It is only your societies, when universal, which can effectually destroy this pernicious traffic, whereby society will be brought into a higher grade and its members to the perfection of virtue. [Applause]. We love your total abstinence societies, and I nope the day may come when, in every congregation of Covington, there may exist a total abstinence society; not because our people are given to drinking but that they may show a good example to others.

The business of the meeting was then opened. Messrs. John A. Henneberry, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Wm. E. Manning, of Ohio, were elected as Assistant Secretaries. The Committee on Credentials then went into session, after which, on motion, the convention adjourned for dinner.
